

Disability Royal Commission Legal Service

Share your story

Do you want to share your story with the Disability Royal Commission?

It's important to know your legal rights.

The Disability Royal Commission Legal Service is here

We are a free service and we are available across Australia.

Disability Royal Commission
Legal Service

A national legal service, independent from the Disability Royal Commission

Independent

We give legal help to tell your story.

This help is independent and separate from the Disability Royal Commission.

Specialist lawyers and workers

Our staff provide trauma informed and disability aware services.

Who we help

- People with disability.
- Family, friends, carers, advocates and supporters.

You can call us on 1800 771 800

We are available Monday – Friday 9.15am – 5.15pm Australian Eastern Daylight Time (AEDT).

Help in other languages

We can organise an interpreter for you. This includes an Auslan interpreter.

National Relay Service

If you are Deaf, hard of hearing and/or have a speech impairment you can talk to us using the National Relay Service.

nrschat.nrscall.gov.au/nrs/internetrelay

When you call us

We will listen to you and give you general legal information.

If you need legal advice we will organise this for you.

You can visit our website

More information about making contact, our services and resources is available on our website:

drclegalservice.org.au